

Why I rush

Written by Mike Carrick

Tuesday, 20 December 2011 13:25 -

I rush because I am mortal, a state of being that is precarious in our modern world.

I rush because I am a Californian living on the Ring of Fire.

I rush because I am downwind from Fukushima, an evolving situation that threatens to fill our skies with deadly cesium when the molten fuel reaches the water table, instantly vaporizing into steam and potentially launching all of those reactors into the air.